Subject: Requests from PLI companies-reg

Sir,

I am directed to refer to some requests made by PLI participant companies. The clarifications with respect to the requests are as under:

S.No.	Requests by companies	Clarification
1	Clarification is sought regarding the raw material purchase value to be used for computation of value addition. It is being requested that purchase value of inputs be taken as value of basic raw material namely polypropylene polymer plus the conversion charges, being paid as job work to another manufacturer, towards converting polymer into Non woven fabric which is then being used for manufacturing of Baby Diapers.	Value of Non-woven fabrics as mentioned in GST invoice should only be considered as the purchase value of Input/Raw material. The GST invoice verification is to be done by PMA i.e. IFCI.
2	Clarification sought regarding consideration of investments made in machinery by the applicant in the applicant company itself without opening the participant company as required under the scheme guidelines. The investments are made after the notification of the PLI scheme and participant company could not be opened as they are awaiting approval under PN3 of DPIIT.	Greenfield investment can only be considered as an Investment. In this case the machinery has already been procured and put to use in the applicant company therefore it cannot be considered as eligible Investment under the scheme.
3	Clarification sought regarding the consideration of investment made towards construction of premises for packaging, storage, warehousing,	The investment made towards construction of storage facility/warehouses within the factory premises should be and distribution across the nation as eligible investment.	considered as eligible investment. Such structures are covered under the Factory definition as per Factory Act which is covered in the scope of PLI investment. However, investment made towards construction of warehouse located outside the factory premises, will not be considered as eligible investment.
